

Going to the Discovery Center

Soon, I will be going to the Discovery Center.

The Discovery Center is a museum where I can learn about different things.

When I visit Discovery Center. I will have to check in at the front desk. Sometimes, there will be a line because other children will want to play. I will try to wait patiently until it is my turn to check in.

There are weighted vests and headphones at the Front Desk if I would like to borrow those.

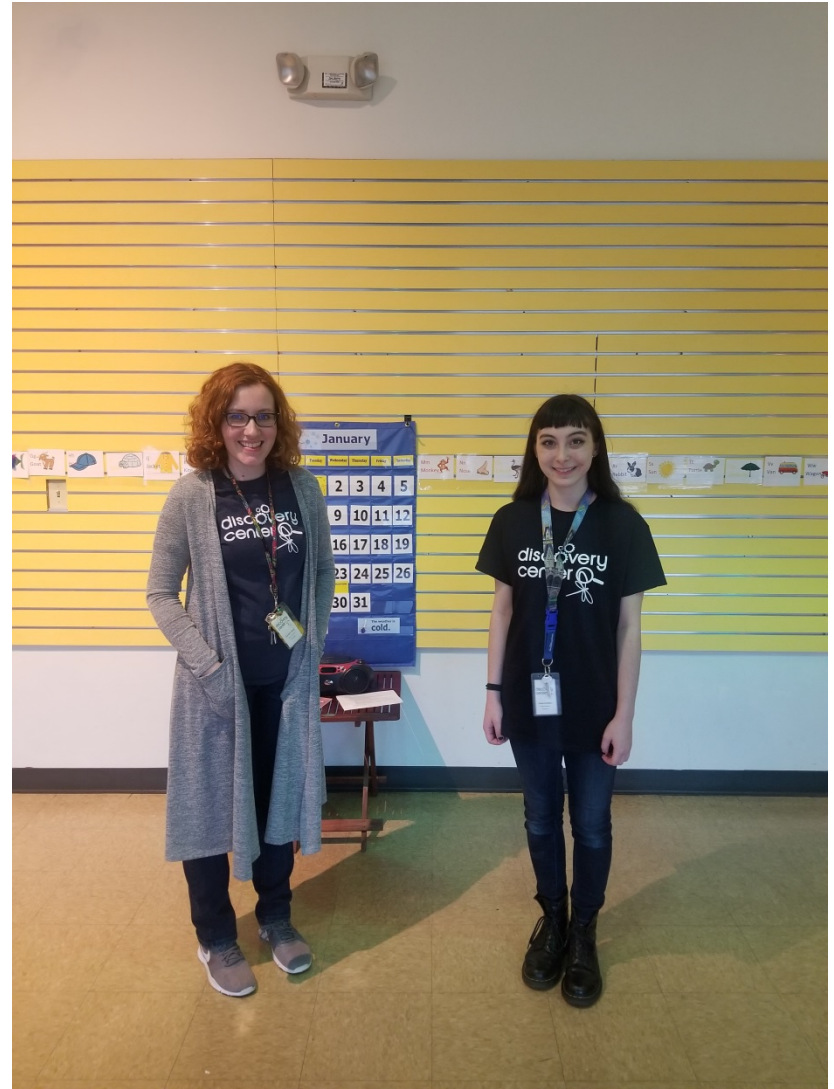

There is a gift shop in the museum as well. If I would like a toy or a snack, I can ask an adult and they might buy it for me.

The friendly Visitor Services Staff will help me with the exhibits and answer any questions I have. They wear t-shirts with Discovery Center's name on it.

- When I am at Discovery Center, I must always try to use my walking feet while inside.

There will be other families playing at the museum as well. I will remember to try to share with them.

There is also a bathroom in the museum if I need to go.

There is a big red firetruck that I can play on. When playing, I must try to stay in the front seat, or I can climb in the back where it is covered in glass.

Creation Station is a place where I can paint, draw, and color if I want to. I must remember to share with other children in Creation Station.

Now that I've explored everything downstairs, I can go upstairs. I should hold the handrail when I walk up and down the stairs. If I need to use the elevator, my adult must go with me.

The exhibits on the second floor changes to fun new things every few months! I will try not to be sad if an exhibit I like is gone. There will be other exhibits that I may like.

I can go down the super slide if I want, but I will have to wait my turn. I will ask my adult if I can use the slide and then I will wait for them at the bottom.

There are also places to explore outside the Discovery Center. I can take a walk through Murfree Spring Wetland and look for butterflies, turtles, ducks, and otters.

I might enjoy my visit at Discovery Center!
